

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
DISTRICT OF NEVADA

Dilyana Petrova,

Plaintiff

v.

Richland Holdings, Inc. dba Acctcorp of Southern Nevada,

Defendant

Case No.: 2:15-cv-0795-JAD-VCF

Order Denying Motion for Reconsideration

[ECF No. 44]

At a hearing on the parties' cross-motions for summary judgment in March 2016, I granted summary judgment in defendant's favor on plaintiff Dilyana Petrova's second and third claims for relief, leaving only her first claim for relief for trial.<sup>1</sup> Petrova now asks me to reconsider my entry of summary judgment on her third claim for relief, arguing that my decision was plagued by a math error.<sup>2</sup> I do not find that reconsideration is warranted, so I deny the motion.

District courts possess the "inherent power to reconsider an interlocutory order for cause, so long as the court retains jurisdiction."<sup>3</sup> "Reconsideration also may be appropriate if (1) there is newly discovered evidence that was not available when the original motion or response was filed, (2) the court committed clear error or the initial decision was manifestly unjust, or (3) there is an intervening change in controlling law."<sup>4</sup>

Petrova has not demonstrated that reconsideration is appropriate. She made the very arguments she now makes during the summary-judgment hearing, and I was not persuaded by them then. I am no more persuaded by them now, and she has not shown that my decision was based on clear error or was manifestly unjust. Accordingly,
